A POLITE THIEF.

Burglarizes Prominent Residences

In a Suave and Pleasing Manner.

The David Dudley Field Home at Stockbridge, Mass.,

Pillaged—He Apologetically Presented a Revolver to Expedite Matters.

STOCKBRIDGE, MASS., June 23.—[Associated Press.]—Two burglaries perpetrated last night have put Stockbridge in a fever of excitement today. The David Dudley Field house on East Main street, and the Parker cottage on Main street, occupied by Mrs. Swan, of New York, were both entered. Mrs. Swan and her friend, Miss Stetson, were alone in the house. Soon after midnight Mrs. Swan was awakened by a light, and found a man standing in the room. He had a revolver in one hand and a lamp in the other; his face from his eyes down was covered with a mask; his feet were wrapped in towels to deaden the sound of walking. He was tall and stout, had black hair, was dressed in dark clothes and wore a derby hat.

Mrs. Swan pluckily reached under her pillow and drew her revolver. The burglar politely told her that unless she dropped it he would be compelled to use his own weapon. She put her revolver down and he took it. As he was about to leave the room, Mrs. Swan called him back and said she wanted to speak with him. He returned and conversed with her for a few minutes, during which she took a good look at him as far as his mask would permit. When he left the room he took Mrs. Swan's revolver, $25 in money and a diamond ring valued at $500. Mrs. Swan and Miss Stetson were perfectly cool through the trying experience. They watched the man leave the house, enter a carriage which was in waiting and drive quickly away.

This house is connected with a burglar alarm, which is supposed to make noise enough to arouse the village. The women started it and kept it running all night, but there was no response. It was found that the burglar had entered by forcing a window in the kitchen.

At David Dudley Field's house Mrs. Laura B. Field, wife of Mr. Field's son David, was awakened under her pillow, where she kept her watch. The room was dark, and she could not see plainly, but discerned the figure of a man. She seized hold of him, saying that he must not take her watch. He tried to throw her off, but did not succeed until he had dragged her out into the hall. When he cried aroused the butler. The burglar did her no great injury, but she was much exhausted from the fright and her efforts to save her watch. The butler fired at the burglar as he was leaving the house, but did not hit him. The thief rushed out, got into a carriage, which was waiting for him in the street, and drove rapidly away. An investigation showed that he had entered by forcing a window in the kitchen. He left a candle burning downstairs. The watch he secured was a valuable gold one, studded with diamonds.

When the fact of these burglaries became known this morning the town authorities offered a reward of $500 for the arrest of the burglars, and Mrs. Field offered $100 for the return of her watch. The father of Mrs. Swan, Mr. Butler, has offered an additional reward of $500. Everybody is thoroughly roused about the matter, and undoubtedly some steps will be at once taken to secure proper police protection here.

THE JAMES CHESTON BURNED.

Destruction of an Old Hulk That Had an Interesting History.

PORT GAMBLE, June 23.—[Associated Press.]—The hull of the bark James Cheston was put on the beach at Boston yesterday and set fire to. She was unseaworthy and had been laid up at Port Ludlow over a year, and her owners took this method of getting the iron work out of her.

She was well known on this coast, having sailed in these waters many years as a lumber carrier. She was built of oak at Baltimore, Md., in 1855. On her first voyage to England her captain, becoming temporarily insane, bored an auger hole in her bottom and with the crew deserted her and took to the small boats. On being picked up he reported her lost, but seaweed choked up the hole when there was only two feet of water in the hold and she drifted across the Atlantic. She was picked up in the English channel, put on the dry dock and repaired and had been sailing ever since.

Edward M. Field's Condition.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 23.—Dr. Judson B. Andrews, superintendent of the state insane asylum here, was asked this morning about the story concerning the condition of Edward M. Field. Dr. Andrews refused to answer the direct question as to whether or not in his opinion Edward M. Field is insane. For the answer to that question he would be responsible to the court, he said, and when Field became of sound mind and understanding it was his (Andrews's) duty so to report to the court. He further said that he was not yet ready to render such a report. In regard to the report that Field roams about the city unattended Dr. Andrews said that this was not true. On one occasion he acknowledged that Field went down to the river unattended, but that for that lapse he had been reprimanded and all privileges taken away from him. In regard to the statement made by Dr. Hamilton and Dr. Macdonald in New York Dr. Andrews said that he himself was not responsible for their statements and what they said did not influence him in the least.

Arrested for Murder in Canada.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., June 23.—Deputy Sheriff E. H. Mosher, of Clarencville, P. Q., accompanied by Sidney Hilliker arrived in St. Albans Thursday, searching for Skinner, who is charged by the Canadian government with the murder of the Edy family. From here Skinner was traced to Sheldon where he was found at work as a section track hand. He agreed to accompany the officers to Clarencville and the party left here for Canada yesterday afternoon.

Of Skinner's movements since the tragedy Deputy Mosher said: "The Saturday morning following the crime Skinner came along and looked at the bodies as they lay in the yard. He hastily left the place and later when wanted by the officers was found in the woods about a mile from the place. He talked intelligently of his movements that night and said that 10 o'clock Friday evening he was at the station. It began to rain and he went over to sleep at Reynolds's barn which is a quarter of a mile from the Edy place. We examined his clothing, but but could find no evidence about his person, not even blood spots, which it is more than likely would be on his clothing if he committed the crime. We examined the barn and found a depression in the hay identical with the man's form. Skinner remained until after the inquest when he asked permission to go away. The government wanted him shortly afterward and we have been hunting for him ever since."

YOUTHFUL MURDERERS.

Sentenced to Twenty Years Each in Memphis.

They Were Farm Hands, Aged 19 and 17, and Killed Their Employer.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 23.—[Associated Press.]—General Hathcock, aged 19, and Mark Davis, aged 17, were convicted today of the murder of Dr. T. A. Clark, and sentenced to twenty years each in the penitentiary.

The boys worked as farm hands for Dr. Clark and had a dispute as to their wages. They went to where he was at work in the field, and Hathcock shot him in the back.

There were no witnesses but the participants, and Dr. Clark died without giving any particulars, merely stating that Hathcock shot him.

Hathcock and Davis swore that Clark fired first, and when Hathcock drew his pistol, Clark turned so as to receive the ball in his back. It was proved that Clark had no pistol and only the youth of the boys saved them from a death sentence.

Hathcock's father, an attorney, was arrested today for contempt of court. He tried to bribe witnesses to show that his son's pistol had only one chamber discharged and that a pistol was found on Clark.

THROUGH WITH SULLIVAN.

Charlie Johnson Has No Faith in John L.

NEW YORK, June 23.—[Associated Press.]—John L. Sullivan's old backer was asked tonight whether he would take the big fellow in harness again in the event of Sullivan's accepting the liberal proposition of the southern sporting men. Johnson was rather surprised at this query was propounded to him, but after due deliberation he said: "No, I'll never have anything to do with him again. He had a chance once before, but he got it in the neck, and there you are. You say these people are willing to back him providing he is in excellent shape. Well, he couldn't have been in better fettle than he was when he was licked by Corbett in New Orleans. He has admitted this fact repeatedly. I believe Corbett could have whipped him in his palmiest days. I will never back him against Corbett."

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

Leavenworth People Shocked Over a Double Tragedy on Sunday.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., June 23.—[Associated Press.]—Ambrose S. Arnold, head book-keeper for Denton Bros., grain commission merchants, today shot and mortally wounded his wife and then blew out his own brains. Arnold accused her of infidelity. Mrs. Arnold indignantly asserted her innocence, but her husband drawing a revolver threatened to shoot her. She coolly folded her arms and dared him to carry out his threat. Leveling the weapon Arnold fired two shots into his wife's body and then blew his own brains out with the same weapon.

A Probable Suicide.

HINGHAM, Mass., June 23.—Frank B. Daniels, of the firm of Smith & Daniels, wholesale clothiers, in Bedford street, Boston, was found dead in bed this morning with a bullet through his heart. Mr. Daniels was a widower, about forty-seven years old, and leaves two young sons. He had been a summer resident of Hingham for several years, living in one of the handsome houses on Bradley's Hill, and was much interested in outdoor sports.

UNDER WHEELS.

Death of an Unknown Despondent Man

Who Evaded the Vigilance of a Watchman

And Lay Down Before a Rapidly Approaching Train.

Nothing Found Upon His Person to Show His Identity or Point to the Cause of Suicide.

NEW YORK, June 23.—[Associated Press.]—A desperate man, whose name and troubles were unknown, committed suicide last evening by throwing himself down on one of the tracks in the railroad north of the Grand Central station and permitting the wheels of an incoming train to cut off his head. He was about thirty-five years old and of medium height, with thin face, dark hair, which was cut short, and a stubby mustache. He wore a suit of cheap check clothes. On the back of his head was a wound which had begun to heal and was covered with a plaster.

Guy Van Noy, of No. 1,906 Third avenue, who is employed as a switchman in the railroad yard, saw the man standing at the Forty-sixth street gate a few minutes after 6 p. m., and noticed that he had a haggard and despondent look. A Harlem train from White Plains emerged from the tunnel at 6:15 p. m. and the locomotive cut loose from the cars at Fifty-first street to take the flying switch at Forty-sixth street. The man at the gate had been waiting for such a chance, apparently, for he ran forward into the yard as the locomotive passed the switch and threw himself down on the track over which the cars of the train must pass to the station.

Van Noy shouted at the man, but could not reach him in time to drag him off the track before the cars passed the switch. He saw the man lay his head over one of the rails in such a position that the wheels of the train would be sure to pass over his neck. The brakeman at the forward end of the train also saw the man and tried to stop the cars, but he could not signal to the other brakemen behind him, and the cars ran along the track until the baggage car had passed over the man. The man's neck was severed by the wheels on one side of the car. His body was taken out from under the car behind the baggage car and was carried to the police station in the basement of the Grand Central station before the cars were drawn into the station by a yard locomotive, but a number of the passengers on the train saw the headless corpse carried away.

In the pockets of the man's clothing nothing was found except a key which had belonged to a valise. It was believed that the man had been an outdoor patient at one of the hospitals, and that he was homeless and destitute. His body was sent to the morgue to await possible identification.

AT ODDS OVER PRINCESS MAY.

The Princess of Wales Upbraids the Queen.

LONDON, June 23.—[Associated Press.]—The interest of the court circle is completely absorbed at present in the quarrel between the queen and the princess of Wales over the marriage of the Duke of York. When the match was first mooted the princess stipulated that nothing should be decided without her assent. The princess now upbraids the queen and the prince of Wales for definitely arranging the match without her knowledge while she was absent on the continent.

In an interview with the queen at Balmoral the princess, while persisting in her aversion to the match, was persuaded to withdraw her active opposition, though she declined to promise to attend the wedding. The queen, to emphasize her approval of the match will give the duchess of Teck, the mother of the bride, the temporary occupancy of a part of Buckingham palace before the date of the wedding and a place in the royal carriage while driving to the Chapel Royal to attend the ceremony.

The queen has decided that the bridesmaids shall be ten of her grandchildren from the families of the prince of Wales, the Duke of Edinburgh, the Duke of Connaught, Prince Henry of Battenberg and the duchess of Albany. The bridesmaids will wear cream colored satin.

SHOT DOWN BY BURGLARS.

Farmer Benreiter Dies from the Wound—One Man Arrested.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., June 23.—[Associated Press.]—Two burglars entered the farm house of Joseph Benreiter, living near New Haven, this county, last night. He heard them and got out of bed to investigate, but was met by a masked man who shot him down. He lingered in great agony until this afternoon, when he expired. The burglars escaped but a man answering the description of the one who fired the fatal shot was arrested by the police at noon today and is now in jail here.

ELEVEN KILLED.

Old John Brown's House Goes Down in the Storm.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 23.—Latest advices from Perry, Kansas, where eleven people were reported killed by a cyclone last night and more missing, are to the effect that no more bodies have been found. The storm swept over a space half a mile wide and several miles in length completely demolishing every structure in its path and killing or seriously injuring every person within the area named. Those killed were found horribly mangled when the bodies were gathered up today. Of the injured three will probably die. An old stone house on the bluff of Kaw River, formerly occupied by John Brown, the noted abolitionist, was destroyed in this storm.

The Wanamaker Suit.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 23.—Owing to ill health Judge Groseup was unable to hold court today, and as a result the motion for a preliminary injunction, which it was expected would be made by the council for the Wanamaker & Brown, New Jersey, corporation, restraining the world's fair company from opening the gates on Sundays could not be heard. J. McK. Clelland, one of the attorneys who is interested in the Wanamaker & Brown injunction proceedings said: "Should we be accorded a hearing we will insist that the World's Columbian Exposition company be required to return the $1,000,000 received from the government, and the court sustaining this position, we propose to show that the return of the money will render the corporation insolvent, and that it cannot possibly recover the loss thus sustained by the additional revenue collected at the world's fair gates on Sundays."

Wiles on Trial for Murder.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., June 23.—In the Christian County circuit court, now in session here, the case of D. V. Wiles, indicted for the murder of Walter Weaver, was called today. This is a noted murder case, and has excited widespread interest. The trouble grew out of an old family feud, and after the killing and while the excitement was still at fever heat, Wiles came here and surrendered, and at his own request was taken to the Henderson jail for protection from an expected mob. Later Wiles was returned here, and lay for months sick in jail from fever. He was attended by his daughters. He is now well, and a jury in his case was impaneled this afternoon. There are 140 witnesses to be examined, and the trial will likely occupy a week.

USES A KNIFE IN SELF-DEFENSE.

Tom Dunkin Fatally Stabs Wiles Lafferty.

DANVILLE, Ill., June 23.—[Associated Press.]—This afternoon at 1 o'clock, Tom Dunkin, for many years a member of the Danville police force, stabbed Wiles Lafferty to death at Kellyville, a mining town six miles south of this city. Coroner Taylor held an inquest, and the verdict returned was that the killing was done in self-defense. Lafferty was a dangerous man and had served a term in penitentiary.

A Fatal Fall.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 23.—John Thorin, a laborer, fell from the west side of the manufacturer's roof this morning to the floor beneath, a distance of 120 feet. His head is crushed, both legs broken and one arm mashed into pulp. He was putting wire screening along the roof to keep any particles of glass that might become loose from falling to the floor below. The intense heat of the morning beat upon the glass roof and overcame him. Thorin swooned and fell from the scaffold to the floor of the great building. He struck the floor on the side. He died a half hour after reaching the hospital. He was 35 years old. He lived at Cornwall, Ill.

Double Murder in Indiana.

EGGERS, Ind., June 23.—A double murder occurred here tonight. A row occurred in a saloon and soon the entire population, crazed with drink, participated. Pistols were used freely and Hugh Coyne was shot and instantly killed and Sam Boyer lay on the ground with his throat cut. He died in thirty minutes. Mrs. Boyer was shot in the arm and severely wounded. All the participants fled across the state line into Ohio as soon as they learned that the sheriff had left Fort Wayne with a posse.

Stanford's Funeral.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 23.—Senator Mitchell received a telegram today from Vice-President Stevenson, asking him to assist Senator White of California in representing the United States Senate at Senator Stanford's funeral. The senator says it will be impossible for him to attend. Owing to the lateness of the notification he regrets very much that he cannot be present. Senator Stanford will be buried on Sunday at 1 p. m. All business will be suspended on the Southern Pacific railway from noon until after the funeral.

Senator Sherman Starts for Ohio.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Senator Sherman started this evening for his home in Mansfield, Ohio, where he will remain until congress assembles. Mr. Sherman has been invited to address the Bankers' Association of his state, which meets next week, but said today that he did not expect to be able to attend. Should he, however, be present he will not make a set speech.

Enough to Go Around.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—There will be no pension deficiency for the current fiscal year, which ends on June 30. This is assured by figures obtained from the treasury department today. A surplus of about $1,500,000 will be turned into the treasury.

Three Men Drowned While Bathing.

OSKALOOSA, Iowa, June 23.—Edward Davis, George J. Riggs and Geo. Mortzen, all of Carbonado, were drowned while bathing in Skunk near this city yesterday.
